Subject: Go fund me

Thanks Dan

I sent this to CiB for exactly that purpose. We did cover it in HENDON and projected that that would occur.

Here is the interesting crux: Go Fund Me refused to freeze an account when mischief were committed on roads, rail lines, property was stolen gas lines were I jeopardy due to digging and assaults with weapons occurred at MMO - leading to significant arrests. Further, the actions were motivated by a political ideology thereby lending credence to Swction 83.

Now they freeze accounts based on social media chatter absent criminal activity.

I sent it to Insp Matt Watson to revisit the MMO request.

Hi All

Forgive me if this is already on Hendon... I'm away from my computer.

I just read that because a tiny fringe element of the truck protest is calling for storming the Capital...the event could technically be violating anti terrorist funding legislation via the go fund me account. This is why go fund me has frozen the account until the organizers can submit a detailed plan and accounting as to how the money will be distributed. Thought it was interesting relative to the previous events at Caledonia with the account. Not that the same leap could would be made for indigenous protests but does shed some light on the boundaries that go fund me has to play within. Might be useful in future as they don't seem overly cooperative with police.

Dom I thought you might find interesting too for your shop.
